

ROOM OF SILENCE– HOW TO

The room of silence is a place of retreat. It welcomes all members of the university at the Künzelsau Campus and their guests during regular opening hours of the university, providing a space for tranquility, meditation, or prayer. The house rules of the Künzelsau Campus apply.

The room of silence is open to all religions and beliefs, and can also be used by individuals not affiliated with any religious community. The key to harmonious interaction is mutual respect.

When entering the room of silence, kindly do so in mindfulness and silence, being considerate towards others. Avoid disturbing the presence or prayers of fellow occupants. The room is shared respectfully by individuals of all religious beliefs and genders. During scheduled events, we kindly request other users to leave the meeting space.

Candles and other open flames are prohibited. The room of silence is not a place for eating or drinking.

The furnishings are kept neutral. It is not permitted to permanently affix any religious symbols. After use, any items utilized (e.g., prayer rugs, crosses, religious scriptures) must be stored back in the cabinets. Displaying information materials or leaving any materials unrelated to the room is not permitted.

The room of silence can be used for religious celebrations, discussion groups and the like. Please send your enquiry by email to seelsorge-hn@hs-heilbronn.de.

To ensure that good co-operation is maintained in the long term, please contact birgit.englert@hs-heilbronn.de in the event of rule violations or conflicts regarding the use of the room.
